DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 5 recites the broad recitation "mounted on another part of the application device", and the claim also recites "in particular on the container" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 4-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nakajima.

The Nakajima reference discloses an application device comprising a container 2, an applicator 3a, a supply channel 3c, a piston 14, an operating mechanism 11, a helical gear 13, a locking device comprising a first locking unit/rib 11e and a second locking unit/tongue 12e, and a flexible interlocking device comprising a flexible interlocking element 11i and a wall weakening 11f.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakajima in view of Iaia.

The Nakajima reference discloses an application device as discussed supra, but does not disclose that the piston and inner guide surface are elliptic. However, the Iaia reference discloses a similar application device including an oval piston and inner guide surface (see Figures 3-5) to further ensure non-rotational sliding of the piston. It would have been obvious to employ an oval piston and inner guide surface in the Nakajima device in view of Iaia to further ensure non-rotational sliding of the piston.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakajima in view of Horstman.

The Nakajima reference discloses an application device as discussed supra, but does not disclose that the applicator has a flocked application surface. However, the Horstman reference discloses a similar application device wherein the applicator has a flocked applicator surface (see col. 3, lines 35-37) for efficient transfer of fluid to the surface to be coated. It would have been obvious to employ a flocked application surface on the applicator of the Nakajima device in view of Horstman for efficient transfer of fluid to the surface to be coated.
